"Right is More Precious than Power"

THE LOAN RESULTS.

It was a magnificent response, and certainly just what was expected, when the people of this country in every reserve bank district overabundantly subscribed to the third Liberty loan. It was fully believed before the campaign was opened that the American people were thoroughly united behind the government in the prosecution of the war, but certainly it could not have been manifested in a more convincing manner than by the way in which they have brought forth their funds and turned them over to Uncle Sam for such use. Patriotism was relieved to put the loan through and not only has done just what was expected of it, but it has also demonstrated, not only by the amount which has been raised but by the number who have participated. The number who are helping the government to finance the war increases with every day. There were 1,500,000 who subscribed to the second loan when there were about 1,000,000 subscribers and in this latest instance the number has risen to 1,700,000, which, though it fell short of the 2,000,000 desired, nevertheless shows as nothing else can how generally the people are backing up the government.

As pleasing as this must be to the government and to the nation, equally disconcerting must it be to the enemy. It shows that the nation is standing together solidly and if such is possible its determination is growing greater every day. With such a showing results in keeping with the demands are bound to be secured.

RAPID SHIPBUILDING.

Government officials, and particularly those in charge of ship construction, took occasion to mark the launching of the new cargo carrier Tuckahoe from the Camden, N. J., yards with a greater interest than has attended other similar affairs in the past few months. It was a case which called for more attention for while there has been a steady cutting down of the number of days required to complete steamships in this country since the government started to increase the merchant marine this was an instance where a vessel of 5500 tons had been ready for the water in a period of 27 days, which means that before a similar period expires the ship will be ready for service.

The speeding up process has been going on in all the shipyards of the country in order to supply the needed shipping at the earliest possible moment. It was only recently that the turning out of a vessel in about 20 days was considered a record for speed. This has been gradually diminished and since then a ship on the western coast has been launched in 55 days. To cut this feat in half, even though the size of the vessel tends to be taken into consideration is certainly worthy of all the attention which has been given to it, for what has been done once can be repeated and it is not improbable that this will not remain long as a record.

This evidence that the shipbuilders are striking their stride is certainly most gratifying to the country and with like results shown in other shipyards, which will of course be geared on to their best efforts, it certainly assures the accomplishment of the shipbuilding programme.

MUST OFFSET GERMAN PLAN.

Germany is already looking for more men. It has brought to the fore the old and the young, those who were not up to the standard on the first test and those outside of the limits for getting the best results. By the action of Russia in dropping out of the war it received large forces which had been engaged on the eastern front for service in the west, but it has suffered large losses and it is now reaching out to get more soldiers.

It is natural therefore that it should seek to have the Germans who are held prisoners in Russia returned to the fatherland. There are a million who were captured by Russia and a million would come in handy most any time. All of these are of course not fit for service but a good many of them are, so it is surprising with the Bolsheviks for the exchange of prisoners at the rate of 40,000 at a clip. How fair and generous Germany is disposed to be to Russia is indicated by the demand that only the able bodied Germans be sent home, that the sick and helpless be still retained in Russia and that instead of Russia taking its healthy men who are now in Germany or Austria as prisoners it will receive its sick and wounded. The intent of this is of course plain. Germany intends to make Russia a hospital not only for the German subjects but for the useless Russians who are in Germany's hands. For its own benefit it wants to retain all the able Russians for war work and to get back the capable Germans for war service. Russia is in no position to do anything except when it is commanded but under such conditions it is evident that all the help which this country can give is demanded at the earliest possible moment.

AMERICAN DYES.

There has been a great hue and cry over the losses which have been sustained in this country because the supply of dyes from Germany was cut off. It was a complaint which simply spurred on American capital to overcome the situation for it has been thoroughly understood that it is possible to make as good and as fast dyes in this country as in Germany if the proper amount of attention is given to it. The trouble has been that there was never sufficient encouragement. It was useless to try to compete with the cheap product from across the water, but once that was denied to us and Americans began to look out for their own needs it quickly became evident that we had been neglecting an important industry and for a much greater period than was justified.

How well the dyemakers of the United States have settled down to their task is convincingly demonstrated by the recent display which was made at a textile industry exhibition in New York where there were displayed goods which had been dyed with German color and the same goods which had been treated with American made dyes. These goods had been subjected to weather conditions for three weeks day and night and it was convincingly shown that the American dyed goods were in every respect the equal of the German product. This disposes of the claim that we are dependent upon Germany, or that we are at a disadvantage because trade with that country is shut off. The facts are all to the contrary and now that it has been shown what American industry can do it is time to give it the right encouragement and support. We want and need no more of the German dyes.

GUARDING PRISON CAMPS.

Once again attention has been called to the fact that a wholesale escape of German prisoners was narrowly averted through the efforts which were necessary to take in order to quell a disturbance among these aliens. According to the report a tunnel had been dug for a distance of 50 feet in the direction of the wire fence enclosing the camp at Fort McPherson in Georgia, starting, as was the case in a previous instance from one of the barracks. It may be learned in time what the rumors were about and whether it had anything to do with the plan to escape, but the investigation which is bound to follow the disclosure ought to be thorough enough to determine where the responsibility lies for giving runaways the opportunity to tunnel for such a distance without the guard knowing anything about it.

Prisoners have escaped from such camps in the south, including officers, who have never been captured. Such was intended this time. A good start had been made on the undertaking and from all indications but for trouble amongst themselves it might have succeeded. This indicates that there was a laxness on the part of the guard which was called for an immediate change. If the barracks where such underground work must be started are not as carefully and frequently inspected as they should be sufficient warning has now been given to bring about needed reforms in this direction. We have enough representatives of the enemy at large in this country without adding to the number by such means.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Someone or other tribulation never goes stale from lack of use.

It isn't a bit too early to be getting some interesting reports on the progress of the home gardens.

Those who can be only good citizens of Germany have no rights to enjoy the freedom and privileges of this country.

Strange as it may seem it requires a pleasant Sunday for some auto drivers to find out that the law must be respected.

From the way in which new quotations are being made on thirst quencher, prohibition has an able first assistant in war prices.

The Shah of Persia in purchasing $100,000 worth of Liberty bonds shows that he is able to recognize a good thing even at a distance.

The Turks may be making some progress in Trans-Caucasia but they appear to be on the run in Mesopotamia and Palestine regions.

Germany is pushing forward into south Russia just as if it believed that it was invading belligerent territory instead of that of a country with which it has concluded peace.

Germany claims that American flyers came down on hospital ships. But why bother to call attention to things which are not when it sinks any kind of a ship with impunity?

We can picture the elation with which the people of Germany will be informed of the failure of the loan in this country because, in spite of the oversubscription, a total of five billion was not secured.

It isn't a bit too early to make your plans for contributing to the Red Cross fund of $100,000,000 which means relief for those on the battlefields—relief for those who have given their dollars and are ready to sacrifice their lives for us.

The report is put forth that the man who started the war is dead. This may have reference to the man who fired the first shot, but not the man who shot at the test of strength that he would not consider a peaceful adjustment following the act.

OBEYING STERN DUTY'S CALL

The woman waiting in front of the blouse counter greets a passing friend who is carrying a knitting bag from which protrude knitting needles and thick yarn. She speaks: "Why, you dear thing, where on earth did you come from? I haven't seen you for a long time and I've been wondering—my dear, do you think you could get the attention of that clerk? I've been waiting here for hours and it makes me feel so conscience-stricken."

"Oh, please, could you wait on me? I want to return this blouse. I'm afraid I'll simply have to call for a floorwalker and I do so hate to do that. It makes one so conspicuous, don't you know?"

"Well, I've been wondering where on earth you were. It's been perfect since I saw you, but I suppose you've been dreadfully busy like the rest of us. Of course you've been knitting and it makes me feel so conscience-stricken."

"Oh, please, could you wait on me? I want to return this blouse. I'm afraid I'll simply have to call for a floorwalker and I do so hate to do that. It makes one so conspicuous, don't you know?"

THE SEASIDE SANATORIUM

(New Haven Union.)

It now appears that opposition to the location of the proposed tuberculosis sanatorium at Niantic is likely to develop or has already developed. It is our understanding that the objection is based on the ground that the opening of the proposed sanatorium will have a deteriorating effect upon property value and in general injure the local economy.

It is a curious fact that whenever a proposition of this sort is developed there are plenty of people who are willing to support it so long as they are certain that it will not be located in the front yard. The fact that the institution is a necessity and that it will bring relief to hundreds of sufferers does not seem to enter into the project. The element of human charity fails to set in on the consideration. Personally we do not care much if the location of the proposed institution will in any noticeable manner affect the property in question. We know that the tuberculosis of Dr. Mahan of this city is a member, and we know that they will go after this end of the fight with the same tenacity that has marked the fight of the French. The location is an ideal one for the purpose and we trust that the protestants will see the light and that the struggle will be a short one.

The wave engulfed him just as he began to hear the splash and patter of falling debris, and he was hurled into the air. He heard his senses away into unconsciousness. He was still sobbing dazedly when the British patrol boat picked him up an hour later.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

Castoria

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA? Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee.
